E. B. McPherson Dies After Week's Illness

HIT-RUN DRIVER INJURES MANUEL LONIS, OF NILES

Alameda Man Stunned And Robbed In Week-End
Accidents

A hit-run driver knocked down Manuel Lonis, of Niles, Sunday afternoon. The passing automobile hit him as he was crossing the street, knocking him into the gutter. The motorist sped on, and his license number was not obtained.

Lonis suffered a severe bruise on the head. His left eye and right thumb are also bandaged due to bad bruises.

Saturday night, Bernalie Vamie-Jons, of Alameda, was struck over the head by one of a group of tramps at the Western Pacific depot. They robbed him of eight dollars and fled.

His injury was not serious, according to Dr. E. C. Grau, who attended both cases.

WATER PIPE OF SPRING VALLEY COMPANY BREAKS

A break in the Spring Valley Water Company pipe line at the corner of the John Santos and Centerville roads caused the residents of that immediate neighborhood to be without water for about twelve hours while the pipe was being repaired, Monday.

The flooding of the corner brought the break to the attention of residents who notified the water company. A crew of men worked all Monday night on the job. The break was probably caused by a slight tremor due to an earthquake fault which runs across that corner.

The pipe was broken at nearby spots several times before.

FUNERAL IN HAYWARD THURSDAY AFTERNOON; BODY TO BE CREMATED

E. B. McPherson, who has been ill for nearly a week, died at six o'clock Tuesday evening in his Main street home. McPherson, who was fifty-six years old, has been in the optical business here in Niles for over twenty years.

His funeral service is to be held at two-thirty this afternoon in Hayward. The body will be cremated, Friday, in Oakland.

McPherson came here from Baker City, Oregon, and went to work for the Coast Rock Company. After being with them a few years he opened up a jewelry and optical store in the old Smith building.

About seven years ago he moved his business to the present site, where for a while he also conducted a small music store.

He was born and educated in Scotland. His education fitted him for the electrical business, and he spent his early manhood in the foreign service of a large English company dealing in electrical supplies.

OAKLAND EAGLES SCORE TEN RUNS TO LESLIES' SIX

The Leslie Salts were defeated, Sunday, by the Oakland Eagles by a score of 10 to 6. The Leslie's chances to win the first half of the winter league are now very slim. They have won one game and lost three.

Harold Dondero has returned to play first base after an absence of about three months. The team has also secured two professionals, Fred Muller and Getty Dandero. Marriott, for the Eagles, was the outstanding heavy hitter of Sunday's game, getting two home runs.

Silva took the mound for Degermark in the seventh inning and allowed only two hits for the rest of the game.

TOWNSHIP PEOPLE CAST IN UNUSUAL ROLES IN DRAMA

"One Minute Of Twelve"
Title Of Country
Club Comedy

"One Minute of Twelve!" is the intriguing title of a comedy play written by Myrtle Elsey to be presented by the Dramatic Section of the Country Club of Washington Township on November 14, at the American Legion Hall in Niles.

The play is supported by a cast which will be even more interesting to the people of the township because of the prominence of many of its members.

The cast includes Mrs. E. B. Hodges, a manicurist; J. B. Hill, Pokadot, a colored servant; R. M. Moore, Billy Butler, always falling in and out of love; W. E. Gravestock, Billy's father; Mrs. George Coit, Billy's sister; Mrs. Frank Dusterberry, Leeta Murray, chum of Billy's sister; Mrs. Frank Brown, Linda Lou, a colored maid; Mrs. C. E. Anderson, an actress; Mrs. R. L. Pond, a dangerous beauty; and Mrs. August May, a waitress.

The cast is directed by Mrs. Burton L. Webb.

The Washington Union high school orchestra will be an added feature at the presentation of the play.

TIRE VANISHES FROM CAR NEAR DEPOT, SUNDAY

The spare tire was stolen, Sunday night, from Mrs. G. B. Betencourt's car while it was parked in front of the depot. Mrs. Betencourt left the car there while she took the train to visit her husband who is in a Vallejo hospital.

According to the engine watchman, three loiterers were seen on the depot yards about nine o'clock Sunday evening. The watchman thinks the tire was probably taken between that time and half an hour later.

JOHN SANTOS DIES MONDAY MORNING AT SANTOS ROAD HOME

Born In Azores, Becomes First Dentist Of Township

John J. Santos, veteran ranch owner of Centerville, died early Monday morning at his home on the John Santos road, which was named for him. Santos who was seventy-eight years old, had been ill for nearly five years and has been confined to his bed for over a year.

The funeral was held Wednesday morning at nine-thirty from the Catholic church at Centerville, with Father Souza reading the solemn service. Interment took place immediately after the ceremony in the Centerville Catholic cemetery.

Born in the Azores in 1852, Santos came to America with his first wife in his early twenties. The young couple settled first in Massachusetts, and after spending less than two years there they came to California where Santos made his home with his brother in Mission San Jose. After spending two years there

BOYS DAMAGE NEW ODD FELLOWS' BUILDING

A newly-laid tile floor in the lavatory on the third floor of the new Odd Fellows' building was badly damaged Friday evening by a group of boys. The boys merely walked on it and they may not have known the damage they were doing, according to H. L. Scott, secretary of the order.

The boys were apparently in the habit of playing in the building after working hours. They tramped all over the tile floor in their play, and because the cement under it was still soft, the tiles were pushed down below the level in many places. In order to get in the lavatory the boys had to remove a barrier in front of the door, and it may be possible the damage was done maliciously. Mr. Scott, however, thinks not, in spite of the fact that the barrier was up, he thinks the mischief was caused by sheer heedlessness on the part of the boys.

Although he would not release any names for publication, Mr. Scott said that the identity of the boys is known, and it has not been decided yet just what action will be taken in the matter.

NEW BUILDING TO BENEFIT BY THEATER PARTY

A theater party for the benefit of the new building at the Mothers' home of the Dominican Sisters will be given at an Irvington theater on the nights of November 19 and 20.

The Dominican Sisters are engaged in mothering and instructing the orphans of the St. Mary's Orphanage at Mission San Jose.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

ROLPH'S VOTE IN ALAMEDA COUNTY

JAMES ROLPH, JR., has been elected governor of California by a majority vote of over six hundred thousand. His Democratic opponent was literally swept off his feet. This tremendous lead establishes a new record in California, and very nearly equals the largest majority ever attained by any candidate in the history of American politics. This fact draws the attention of the nation to a new national figure raising his head in the West.

In the primary election, last August, Rolph's vote in Alameda county was a distinct surprise to Republican state leaders, and probably to the San Francisco mayor himself. It was Young's home. The present governor had the backing of practically all the newspapers, and the political boss, Mike Kelly—until very recently all-powerful, but now a dismal figure in Alameda county politics. The governor was conceded the county by around 25,000. He won it by a scanty three thousand. In south Alameda county, Rolph swept everything before him.

No one man or organization of men could be given credit for Rolph's splendid vote, either in the county as a whole or that particular section south of San Leandro. But if any one man deserves especial mention and congratulation, that man is John T. Edner, campaign manager for Rolph in south Alameda county. Edner is one of those strange personalities that so often rise to prominence in metropolitan districts, and his success in a small city like Hayward with its rural environs gives it even a more romantic touch.

A born diplomat, Edner brought into the campaign a knowledge of practical politics that amazed all those who came in contact with the management of the San Francisco mayor's campaign. He succeeded in welding together men of divergent views on prohibition, and where discord and antagonism developed by tactless activities of men who "wished" themselves upon the Rolph organization, Edner poured upon the turbulent waters the oil of savvy. Thus he held an united front to the enemy, and the result has been previously chronicled in the tremendous lead given Rolph in the primary and general election.

Edner, naturally, becomes a commanding figure in county politics, and must be reckoned with in matters of major concern that may effect the incoming administration in south Alameda county.

PROUD OF OUR MIGHTY PEN

THE EDITOR of the Township Register has a saving sense of humor or long ago he would have folded up his tent and silently stole away. His good civic advice to the people of Niles has gone unheeded, and his labors in the vineyard of public service have often been misinterpreted as emanating from selfish or malicious motives. To all this the writer has been oblivious, and smiled in good nature.

So in the midst of all our fruitless effort, will the reader not for a moment suppress a laugh when we call attention with some show of pride to a recent victory for our editorial pen—a bootblack has established himself in our midst directly due to an editorial recently appearing in this erudite column. It makes our old heart warm with pride, it rekindles our spirit with hope. Maybe, within ten years, we may see Niles incorporated, and in less time the band stand that disgraces the main street, painted.

But then again vain may be our hope about this band stand. The spreading tree that shades it is diseased, and bugs and worms are eating at its vitals. As a diversion, these little pests drop down upon the stand and bore holes in its floor and perforate its sides. It becomes a contest of which shall keep from being eaten first—the tree or the poor, old, weather-beaten band stand. If the stand wins, the Niles Chamber of Commerce will, doubtless, accept the Register's offer to paint the remains, or take it out in the hills and bury it.

And who will say, then, we are not proud with reason!

NEW MACHINERY TO BE PLACED IN SUGAR REFINERY

The Holly Sugar Company will soon install some new machinery in its beet sugar plant in order to double its production next year, according to officials of the company. The local concern, the first beet sugar refinery in the west, was taken over by the Holly company three years ago. After a test run some antiquated machinery was replaced, and the plant has been running to capacity every since. It is now one of the most important industrial plants in southern Alameda county.

Favorite Recipes of a Famous Chef

As Told to Anne Baker
By FREDERIC FRANCOIS
GUILLOT
Chef, Hotel Astor, New York City

As a means of adding a bit of variety to the menu, Mr. Guillot suggests these two new ways of preparing carrots and beets.

Golden Mountain—Scrape and boil until tender enough young carrots to make two cups when mashed. Mash thoroughly and add two well-beaten eggs, one-fourth cup cream, one teaspoon sugar and salt and pepper to taste. Place in well-buttered mold. Stand in pan of hot water and bake until firm in a moderate oven. Turn out on platter and surround with cooked peas.

Savory Beets—Boil one-half dozen medium size beets until tender. In the meanwhile, mix together two tablespoons butter, one teaspoon grated onion, one teaspoon sugar, one tablespoon vinegar, one-half teaspoon salt, a dash of nutmeg. Cook for five minutes. Peel and slice the beets. Arrange in serving dish and pour the sauce over them.

This Year Than Ever
In Past

Complete organization of the Livermore Veterans' Hospital Christmas Committee for 1930 which for the past six years has provided through the generosity of patriotic, fraternal, civic and welfare organizations for war nurses and families of the veterans, is announced by Walter H. Eliassen, general chairman. Eliassen is past commander of Oakland Post, No. 5, American Legion.

The officers of the committee include: Emmet J. McKay, first vice-president; Mrs. A. J. Mathelet, second vice-president; J. W. Grathwaite, treasurer; and Mrs. Lulu R. Webster, secretary.

Committees are as follows: Budget and Finance, Charles Leonard Smith; Purchasing, Mrs. Herman White; Wrapping and distribution, Mrs. J. W. Grathwaite; Transportation, George Katzenberg; Grab Bag, Mrs. M. F. Murray; Speakers, Elmer Zollner; Publicity, B. S. Sanders; Hospital Representatives, Dr. Frank B. Bewer; Medical Officer in Charge, Miss Irma Anderson; Director Red Cross Service, William P. Manuel.

Regional representatives on the Livermore Veterans' Hospital Christmas Committee are as follows: Contra Costa County—Charles W. St. John; Alameda—Raymond T. Kahn; Albany—Judge George W. Hickman; Berkeley—Col. E. J. Hardy; Emeryville—Claude D. Palmer; Hayward—H. A. Bradford; Livermore—Mrs. N. D. Butcher, Jr.; Oakland—Dr. John F. Slavich; Piedmont—Major W. S. Overton; and San Leandro—Mrs. James Dalziel.

Each year the problem of meeting the need of more gifts to the veterans as well as to their families has grown. A survey has disclosed that forty percent of the non-compensated war veterans have families.

Due to the present depression in business and its consequent increase in unemployment, the need is greater this year than ever before. The 1930 budget has been set close to $4,000.

Only organizations are asked to contribute, veterans, civic, fraternal, service, patriotic, though, while not solicited many individual subscriptions are volunteered.

Interesting Facts About Spiders Told By Expert

Spiders, reptiles and nature fakes were the topics of an illustrated lecture by Professor Karl Hazeltine, of San Jose State Teachers College, at the last meeting of the student body of Washington Union high school on November 7.

Professor Hazeltine allowed a smooth tarantula, which he brought with him, to crawl over his hand. It did not bite him nor show any signs of fight. He explained that the smooth tarantula, such as are found in this locality are not poisonous nor belligerent, but will show fight if teased. He also had a black widow spider with him. It is the only insect in this vicinity whose bite is deadly, according to the professor. The spider has a round shiny body with a hard shell, and when turned over one may observe a red spot on its underside. It grows to be as big as a pea, and sometimes as big as a finger nail. Professor Hazeltine is studying the different forms of life of this particular locality in order to make a series of educational pictures.

WOMEN TEACHERS' BASKETBALL TEAM HOLDS PRACTICES

Women teachers of the high school are holding secret basketball practice in the new gymnasium in the hopes that they may be able to develop a team which will beat the champion senior class team when the teachers challenge them to a game in about two weeks.

According to Mrs. O. S. Wood, the positions have not been assigned yet, but just as soon as the women learn the difference between the ball and the basket they plan to enter into competitive play.

Those practicing are Miss L. M. Wright, Miss E. M. Sandholdt, Miss G. I. Knoles, Miss R. A. Nicely, Miss A. J. Roberts, Mrs. G. C. Jackson, Mrs. O. S. Wood, and Miss I. Liston. Miss Florence Aust and Mrs. J. P. Morris will probably join later.

Girls Discuss Clothes For Graduation Wear

The girls of Washington Union high school are now discussing the question of "What to wear?" in their club meetings. At the Girl's League meeting last Wednesday the discussion centered around wearing evening gowns for graduation and the adoption of a middy-and-skirt uniform for the everyday school wear of the girls. Both questions were tabled till the next meeting of the league.

At the same meeting the girls planned their annual Christmas party for the student body of the high school.

SCHOOL SHOP ENLARGED

The auto mechanic shop at the high school will be enlarged now that the new gymnasium is in use. The former shower rooms will be added to the shop by knocking down the separating partition.

Escondido—J. M. B. Flax Department Stores leased H. Fish building on Grand avenue, for opening of new store here.

CENTERVILLE BOY INJURED DURING PAJAMARINO RALLY

Students Mob Moving Picture Theaters In Palo Alto

George Robinson, of Centerville, and a freshman at Stanford, had his leg crushed between two automobiles while parading in the annual "pajamarino rally" on the Palo Alto campus. The rally is a preliminary celebration of the "little big game" between the Stanford and California freshmen.

The accident was the chief incident in a night of excitement which reached a climax when Palo Alto police, armed with tear bombs, scattered frenzied mobs of first-year students at the doors of Palo Alto's two moving picture houses.

They had gone "off-campus" in spite of a warning by Gale D. Wallace, editor of the Stanford Daily, in which he said, "Any post-rally raid on Palo Alto would be a distinct violation of the code of Stanford gentlemen."

ALUMNI PRACTICE FOR THANKSGIVING FOOTBALL BATTLE

Fourteen alumni of the Washington Union high school met at nine-thirty Sunday morning on the school grounds for the first football practice in preparation for the annual Thanksgiving football game, which is to be played at 10 a. m. on Thanksgiving day between the alumni and the school varsity.

The alumni will practice every Sunday morning from now on under the coaching of Joe Blacow. According to Blacow, a lot of hard work is necessary to get his team in condition; but by Thanksgiving, he says, he will turn out a team which will be able to lick its weight in wild cats.

However, he wants more alumni to turn out for practice, because with only fourteen men on the team, he has just three substitutes. A reserve strength of three men is a pretty slim reserve to last through such a hard fight as the alumni game is sure to be.

Friends Reunite At Sharman-Salz Home

Invitations for one hundred and fifty guests were sent out for a tea given on Thursday by Mrs. L. Sharman and Mrs. Henri Salz at the Sharman residence.

Guests were received by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. P. A. Ellis, of Niles, and Mrs. Bruner. Many friends from afar were present making it a reunion of old friends.

In the dining room Mrs. George McDougall, of Stockton, and Mrs. Evelyn Chandler assisted at the table, which was a thing of beauty with lovely flowers and dainty viands. The guests were served by charming young ladies, among whom were Mrs. V. Malm, of Palo Alto, Mrs. A. Massion, of Alameda, Mrs. G. Peck, of Oakland, Mrs. E. Zenken, of San Francisco, Mrs. H. Allen, of Oakland, Miss Stella Reid, of Stockton, Mrs. G. Sperbeck, of Alameda, and Miss B. Sperbeck, of Belmont.

The rooms were beautifully decorated with the autumn flowers and colors.

Among the old friends noticed were Mrs. H. Crosby, of Oakland, Mrs. J. Fitting, of Alameda, Mrs. E. Hamilton and Mrs. F. Vincent, of San Francisco, and Mrs. Jacobs and daughter, of Alameda.

Those who assisted at the tea remained for dinner afterwards and enjoyed cards.

SCHOOL BOARD WOULD CHANGE GAME SCHEDULE

The board of supervisors of the Washington Union High school is dissatisfied with the schedule of the coming basketball games to be played by the class "B" league. The coaches of the schools concerned have scheduled the games in the afternoons after school.

According to M. J. Overacker, president of the board, it would be much more desirable to schedule the games in the evening, a practice which has always been observed in the past. The main reason is, he says, because of the interest in the games taken by the townspeople. They will be unable to attend the afternoon games, whereas they would be able to enjoy the games if scheduled in the evening. The supervisors are looking into the matter to see what can be done about changing the schedule.

A new board walk is being built between the high school's new gymnasium and the north end of the auditorium. According to Mr. Wales, the walk was needed to keep the boys from carrying mud into the new gym.

Paint on the windows of the new building is being cleaned off by three former stars on the football team of the school. They seem to draw as large an audience scraping paint as they did when they played football, according to reports from the high school.

EMERYVILLE GOES DOWN TO DEFEAT BEFORE AMADOR

Dons Score First Touch-down Chalked Against That Team

Going into their game against Emeryville Friday afternoon at Emeryville as the acknowledged underdogs, but with the determination to score, the Dons of Amador surprised the entire east bay high school football dopesters and dumped their highly touted opponents by a 7 to 0 score.

Amador's score came late in the final quarter. It was the first time that Emeryville High's goal line had been crossed, and necessarily the first time they had tasted defeat this year. Undoubtedly Amador played over its head in this game, but the credit for the win must go to Coach Patterson, who had the boys keyed up to score.

It was the mighty booting of Muggs George, of Amador, which kept the ball out of Amador's territory when the Emeryville goal threatened. It was Muggs who scampered over with the touchdown and Schinkle, of Amador who added the extra point by catching a well directed pass.

The win was a real feather in the caps of the Dons as it was the last game of the season for the Emeryville team and they were out to keep their record intact and their goal line uncrossed. They had played eight games.

Thoroughfares Council Topic At Pleasanton

Status of St. Marys and Division Sts., May Be Changed

INHALATOR GIVEN TEST
Instrument Ordered By Board Demonstrated
At Meeting

St. Marys and Division Sts., may be ordered boulevardized by Pleasanton city council in an effort to reduce the speeding and reckless driving which has become so prevalent upon the cross streets of the west side of the city. This action was discussed by council at its meeting Monday night and then tabled until next meeting when it is thought that definite action will be taken.

It was brought out by the council that the cross streets, especially Pleasanton Ave., were being made speedways following the campaign which eliminated speeders from the main streets of the city. If council should order St. Marys and Division Sts., made arterial thoroughfares, it would necessarily cut down the speed of cross town traffic at these points, and give the police department a definite order upon which to act.

Residents of that district are heartily in accord with the plan, it was said.

In connection with this discussion by council, Police Chief Wm. T. Davis announced that the practice of driving with cutouts open, especially motorcycles, is being resumed again, and that this time the police department will make arrests instead of just issuing warnings as in the past.

Other routine matters constituted the most of the time of the board. These actions included the allowance of the claims against the city for work done during October, approving the officers' monthly reports and employees' payroll.

The city clerk's report showed that the revenues of Pleasanton increased materially last month due to the first installment of taxes being paid.

Council was informed that a demonstration of the inhalator which it had ordered purchased, would be made Tuesday at the fire house. A large number of the councilmen witnessed the demonstration, as did representatives of various other organizations interested in the instrument.

Baldwin Ranch's Hereford Herd Is Big Prize Winner

Twenty-eight Firsts Have Been Awarded In Two Shows

Twenty-eight first awards have been the honors won by the Hereford cattle shown by the Baldwin Ranch of Pleasanton at the first two cattle shows of the year, according to Manager Bergstrom.

The Baldwin cattle have been shown at the California State Fair and at the Utah State Fair. Seventeen head composed the herd at the California show, and fourteen head were taken to Salt Lake City. Among the championships taken were the Grand Champion Bull, Grand Champion Cow and Grand Champion steer at the California State Fair, along with fifteen first, five second and three third prizes.

In addition to thirteen firsts, five seconds and five thirds at the Utah State Fair, the Baldwin herd was awarded grand championship ribbons for bull and cow, junior championships for bull and female, and senior championships for bull and female.

The Baldwin Hereford herd is now at Portland, Ore., where it will be shown at the Pacific International which opens tomorrow, October 25.

From Portland the herd is to be taken to Wichita, Kansas, for the Kansas National Livestock Show. They will then be shipped to Kansas City where they will be entered in the biggest Hereford show in the United States, the American Royal.

Instead of going on east to the Chicago show, the Baldwin herd will be shipped to the Los Angeles show. The omission from the Chicago show this year was because of the greater importance of the Los Angeles show to Hereford fanciers over the eastern display.

Sales of the blooded Hereford stock from the Baldwin Ranch have been numerous, it was said.

THE DOUBLE CROSS

by
A. E. THOMAS

Copyright. By Dodd, Mead and Company, Inc.

Two persons enter into a conspiracy against a third one. One of the conspirators is not true to the compact. Secretly he informs the third party or takes other action that defeats the conspiracy and throws the burden on the trusting partner. Such is the origin of the term, double cross. It has had various modifications and applications until it has come to mean almost any underhanded gaining of confidence and subsequent betrayal. Beginning as a slang term, it was too expressive to remain so, and is now a recognized figure of speech. A singularly wicked form of the double cross is the basis for this story. A man proves recreant to the most sincere form of friendship, recreant to the partner who held him in the closest regard, aided him over rough places, paid his debts and persistently excused or overlooked his faults. The most dastardly action was when the false friend came between the true one and the woman he loved.

Written by the successful playwright, the story is essentially dramatic, crisp in dialogue and realistic in action. The metropolitan setting is used with fine effect to produce atmosphere and characterization. The absorbing elements of the plot are rendered more fascinating by a vein of subtlety and mystery leading to an unexpected climax near the end. The story might properly be termed the triple cross, for the double crosser himself becomes the victim of one whom he trustingly took into his enterprise.

CHAPTER I.—Jim Stanley, wealthy young New York business man, unable to concentrate in his dictation to his desk, has the machine taken to his home, in order to finish his work there. Rollin Waterman, his business partner and closest friend, comes in and is awfully in love with Doris Colby. Stanley promises to toss a coin to determine which of them shall, that evening, first ask her to marry him. Waterman wins.

CHAPTER II.—Nina Morgan, Waterman's secretary, also his mistress, has overheard his conversation with Stanley and resenting Waterman's plans to reveal the source of her information she convinces Doris of Stanley's duplicity, and leaves her to go to Doris and tell her she (Nina) has been wronged—but by Stanley. The girl consents, on Waterman's promise to take care of her.

CHAPTER III.—Doris admits to her father her interest in both Stanley and Waterman, and is sure they are both in love with her, but she is unable to make up her mind which to marry.

CHAPTER IV.—Nina goes to Doris with her story, securing a promise that Doris will not reveal the source of her information. She convinces Doris of Stanley's duplicity, and leaves her to go to Doris and tell her she (Nina) has been wronged—but by Stanley. The girl consents, on Waterman's promise to take care of her.

CHAPTER V.—Waterman that evening asks Doris to marry him, and she, believing Stanley unworthy, accepts him. According to the arrangement, Stanley appears, to learn his rival has won. He accepts the situation, and as a wedding present gives his share of the business to Stanley. Next day he arranges with his secretary, Frank Wilson, to take charge of his other business interests. He is going to India.

CHAPTER VI.—Doris, unable to let Stanley completely out of her mind, tells Waterman part of Nina's story. He promises to "try" to find the girl, so that full corroboration can be made. Waterman is deeply in debt to a gambler, Bromfield, and the latter presses for payment. Waterman quietly pays him by the news of his engagement to the wealthy Doris Colby.

CHAPTER VII.—Waterman makes a financial arrangement with Nina which will insure her silence. CHAPTER VIII.—Frank Wilson, who has long been a suspicious character, is aroused in him. He leaves Waterman's employ. The latter begins to importune Doris for money, ostensibly for the "business," but actually for gambling purposes.

CHAPTER IX.—At Waterman's urging Doris wears her magnificent diamond necklace, which had been her dead mother's, to the opera. That night it disappears. Doris' father enlists Bromfield's aid in tracing the stones (the gambler's wife underworld acquaintance making him a likely party to get information about the gems), and is apparently satisfied with the results of Bromfield's efforts.

Waterman's affairs and his relations with his wife? Or ought he to hold his tongue about it and let Stanley see for himself, make his own observations, draw his own deductions—and answer questions when they were asked? As Stanley hung up the receiver, Wilson decided to hold his tongue for the present. Doris Colby hung up the telephone receiver automatically. Her heart pounded in her breast. Jim Stanley was back!—Jim! A wave of happiness surged over her whole being. For the first time in months she was happy. In a little while she would see him again, take his hand, hear his voice—Ecstasy! A few moments of sensation, then a chilling thought. What should she say to him?

Swiftly her mind reviewed the events of her life since Jim had gone away. She could not talk of that—she must not let him guess to what a pass things had come. There had been changes enough in many ways, but she suddenly realized that nothing had changed in relation to Jim. Nothing—yet everything. Then she had believed him to be a scoundrel. She had accepted Nina Morgan's story at its face value. Now she disbelieved it utterly. She had recovered her faith in Stanley. Why? Why? It was illogical. There was no sense in it. Why was it? At this instant the door of her morning room opened, and her husband appeared. Instantly, with the terrifying illumination a flash of lightning the answer flashed upon her. It was because she loved Jim Stanley! This she knew suddenly, beyond peradventure of doubt, as she looked upon her husband. In the great white light of this illumination all her life suddenly took on a new meaning, a new value. "Cold dark places were lighted up, old prophecies were rearranged. Her husband was there, but he meant nothing. Jim had returned! In a little while she would see him! She could think of nothing else. What Waterman said to her and what she answered him she could never remember.

It was not until they sat at dinner half an hour later that she was able to think. Her first impulse was to telephone Stanley not to come. That would be the wise thing to do. She must have time to get herself together, to determine what she ought to do, to organize her forces to carry it through. She had plenty of time during the day for reflection. She and Rollin had little to say to each other these days that was not perfunctory. Just now he himself had sufficient material for reflection, so that the meal passed in almost total silence.

In the drawing-room, after dinner, he broke a silence that had lasted some moments.

"Doris, old girl," he said, "I'm sorry to be so dull tonight—but the fact is I'm terribly worried."

With an effort she turned her mind to what he was saying. "What's the matter?"

"Oh, business, as usual."

"You've been speculating again?"

"Well—yes."

"I suppose I need scarcely remind you that you promised me, not once, but many times, to keep out of the stock market."

"I know—"

"And that you've repeatedly broken your promise."

"You don't understand, Doris. There are times when it seems impossible to do anything else, and when a man gets as deep in a hole as I am, he'll take almost any chance to get out. He's got to."

"How deep is this hole you're in?"

"Not so very deep, but it's deep enough to bury me in if I don't get out of it—Oh, I wouldn't tell you about it, if I weren't driven to it. It's humiliating enough for a man to be forced to ask his wife for money, even if she has plenty of it."

Doris allowed herself the first leer of her married life. "It's a humiliation," she said, "to which you seem to have accustomed yourself pretty well. I don't mean 'o be ungenerous, but you know how often this has happened."

"That's true enough," he admitted. "I've no excuse except that I've had the rottenest luck that anyone could imagine. Everything I've touched has gone wrong, and now, well—if I can't raise $35,000 by tomorrow morning, I shall be completely wiped out."

"You mean the business?"

"Oh, no, no," he said hastily, "the business is all right. This is my personal account."

Doris had not been listening to his tergiversations for the better part of a year without being able to tell when he was lying. She knew that he was lying now, but she only said, "All right, Rollin, I'll write my check for $35,000 with the understanding that this is absolutely the last time. I'm perfectly willing to give you an allowance, since that is the kind of man you are, apparently. But if you get caught again in the stock market, it's at your own risk. Is that understood?"

"Oh, quite, quite," he said, "and many thanks, old girl." As he spoke he took her hand and tried to draw her to him. But she said quickly, "Please don't do that. I don't like it."

"It was only trying to show you how much I appreciate it."

"Do it some other way, if you please."

He drew himself up stiffly. "As you like."

He turned to go, and she stopped him. "Rollin, one moment. What's the use of our going on like this?"

"Like this?"

"You know what I mean. You're not happy with me—I'm not happy with you. Why not end it?"

"You mean divorce?"

"Yes, that's what I mean."

Waterman was taken wholly unawares. He knew, of course, that he had imposed upon the generosity of his wife. He knew, too, that he had neglected her. He had taken her too much as a matter of course. But he was so self-centered that he had not realized that he was as yet in any danger that she should resent it. It now became suddenly clear to him that he had gone too far.

"Doris, old girl," he exclaimed, "you don't mean that! I know I haven't been as good a husband as I should, but I've been distracted and worried and bothered by so many things that perhaps I—"

"No," she said, "no. Rollin. That isn't it at all. If you really loved me all these things would have brought us closer together. As it is they have driven us further apart. From the very beginning I had my doubts, and now I know that it's all been a terrible mistake. I wish to end it. I've been thinking about it for weeks. And now I want your consent to an undefended divorce."

Strangely enough, though it had not been above an hour since Doris realized for the first time that she loved Jim Stanley, her present conversation was not consciously an outcome of that realization. That realization had, however, clarified like magic her growing point of view. "I don't believe in divorce. Also, despite certain obvious drawbacks, I like my home as it is, and I've no intention whatever of being separated from the society of my wife. And besides that—"

"Oh, please, please," she said. "Let's not discuss it any more just now. Try and look at it from my point of view. I'm sure that before long you'll see that I'm right."

"Doris, Doris, My Dear Doris!"

Ramanara. Swami, this is Mrs. Waterman."

"Madame," said the Swami. "The Swami and I," went on Stanley, "have been traveling companions all the way from the East. He has come to study America and to interest us in his own particular cult. He has interested me in it so deeply that my first thought was to put you in touch with him."

"You see," continued Stanley, "the Swami is a mystic of uncommon powers. Many things dark to us are clear to him. I am sure, for example, that though it is not two minutes since he saw you, he knows quite well the kind of person you are. Yes—more than that. I am sure he knows whether you are happy or not, and why."

"Really?"

"Don't be alarmed," he laughed. "He speaks English quite well, though with some difficulty, but he has an astonishing gift of reticence. You see, he speaks only when he has something important to say."

"How charming. If the rest of us were like that what a lot of trouble it would save."

"Wouldn't it though! But come now—how are you? Well, I hope awfully well?"

"Oh, yes, yes—awfully."

"Splendid! And happy?"

"Of course."

"Fine! You'd better be happy! I remember that about the last thing I said to Rolly was that he must make you awfully happy, because if he didn't he would have to answer to me."

"I remember." But the blue eyes did not meet his gaze quite frankly.

"Hm. Well, where is the old rascal? I want to see him—trot him out."

"He'll be here presently."

"Lord! But it's good to see you again. Your letters were not so numerous—just a line from Rollin once, but I don't remember getting one from you."

"No?"

"No—not one."

"That's strange, though perhaps it isn't. Whenever I send a letter across the ocean it seems a miracle. But how surprising to see you—we had no idea!"

He noted her avoidance but he passed it over and replied, "I didn't warn anyone—just woke up one morning homesick, for the first time, and started the same day. I haven't quite got my bearings yet, but it does seem as if the town is noisier than ever. I wish Rollin would hurry up. I can't stay but a moment. Lots to do. You see, I'm going down to the country tomorrow to open up the place."

"Has it been occupied while you've been gone?"

"No—locked up just as it was. There'll be lots to do if I'm to be a going concern in a few days. But I want you and Rolly to spend a week-end with me pretty soon."

"Yes, of course."

"How about next Saturday?"

"I think, perhaps, if Rolly has nothing else."

"Good—next Saturday, then."

With this, Waterman stood in the doorway. Stanley made a rush and seized him by the shoulders. "Old man! Old man!—By George! This is great!" He shook him playfully before he took his hands.

"I'll say it, old thing? Quite a surprise."

"Yes, yes—I didn't tell a soul I was coming. Oh, beg pardon, Swami—this is my old friend, Rollin Waterman. You've heard me speak a lot of him. Rollin, the Swami Ramanara."

TAKING THE GUESS OUT OF BUSINESS

By JOHN G. LONSDALE

President American Bankers Association

BANKERS and business men err in not adopting more universally the tactics of the scientist. When the scientist wishes to fathom the mysteries of the universe or resolve things into their component parts he calls to his assistance the magnifying power of the microscope. There before him, like an open book, lie the secrets of nature which unaided eyes cannot observe.

The uncanny power of the microscope's all-seeing eye has revealed countless secrets for the material and intellectual progress of humanity. It has enabled us to study the processes of growing cells in plant and animal life, trace the causes of disease and successfully combat the ills of mankind; it has aided the engineer in his search for stronger and more serviceable materials, giving us taller, lighter and more sanitary structures, and better highways; it has disclosed the defects in steel rails and brought us an era of safer railway travel; it has added to the food supply of the nation, in fact, it has affected favorably nearly every activity of the human race, whether it apply to production, distribution or consumption, in time of peace or in time of war.

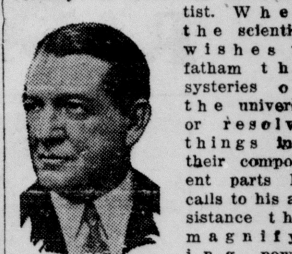

In the business and banking world, economic research and analysis serve as the microscope through which we are enabled to see basic factors more clearly and thus determine the causes of success and failure. Only recently have we begun to realize the full value of research and analysis and apply them in such a way as to eliminate the guesswork that was characteristic in industry a few years ago. "Eliminate the guess and reach success," might well be a motto for all of us.

BALDWIN RANCH HEREFORD HERD TAKES HONORS

Four Grand Championships Are Won At Portland Stock Show

Four grand championships headed the honors awarded the Baldwin Ranch's Hereford herd at the Pacific International Live Stock show at Portland, Ore. The grand champions were in the Senior, Reserve Female, Female and Junior classes.

Eight firsts, including the coveted Get-of-Sire class, two females bred and owned by the exhibitor, two bulls bred and owned by the exhibitor, and other important groups; eight second and five third awards were among the prizes taken by the Pleasanton raised herd.

This years show was the strongest ever held at Portland, according to W. L. Bergstrom, of the Baldwin Ranch. Every animal in the Baldwin Ranch string was born and raised on the ranch, at Pleasanton.

The herd, which is composed of fourteen head has now gone to Kansas City where it will be exhibited in the famous American Royal Live Stock Show, to be held November 15 to 22.

The American Royal will be the largest in years, according to the management, as already 3,063 entries have been made against the 2,742 of last year. From the number of entries it may be seen what the Baldwin herd is facing in the way of competition.
